Organized by

West Bengal State Aids Prevention & Control Society; Dept. of Health & Family Welfare,
Govt. of West Bengal with all the NSS Units and Covid -19 Redressal Cell of Maynaguri
College, University of North Bengal

Time Frame: 2nd August to 14th August, 2020

Introduction

International Youth Day, observed on 12th August, serves as a moment to celebrate the potential and achievements of young people globally. To mark this occasion in 2020, an online international-level writing competition was organized. The event was a collaborative effort by the West Bengal State AIDS Prevention & Control Society, the Department of Health & Family Welfare, Government of West Bengal, along with the NSS Units and COVID-19 Redressal Cell of Maynaguri College under the University of North Bengal (NBU). This report provides an overview of the competition held from 2nd August to 14th August 2020, including its organization, participation, and outcomes.

Event Organization and Participation

The writing competition was meticulously organized to encourage widespread participation and to offer a platform for creative expression during the pandemic. The rules and regulations for the competition were made available on the official website of Maynaguri College on 2nd August 2020, ensuring clarity and accessibility for all potential participants.

A total of 32 participants, including teachers, students, NSS volunteers, research scholars, and other individuals not directly involved in teaching professions, took part in the event. The diverse group of participants highlighted the inclusive nature of the competition.

Every participant was awarded an E-Certificate, recognizing their contribution and effort in the competition.

Objectives and Outcomes

The primary objectives of the writing competition were:

- Enhancing Writing Skills: The competition aimed to provide a platform for participants to showcase and develop their writing abilities, fostering creativity and critical thinking.
